

Group insurance that treats your people the way you treat your people.

The team at MLC Group Insurance believe that there should be more to choosing an insurer than simply looking for the lowest price.

So when we design an insurance policy, we make sure the benefits included are tailored to a group's specific needs. We understand that your group needs an individual solution to meet the needs and the profile of your people. With MLC Group Insurance, you can be sure that what matters to you and your people, matters to us.

Our personalised approach to group insurance means that even though MLC is the largest personal insurer in Australia, you'll speak to a person who is part of a specialist team, not a faceless machine. So when it comes to making a claim, you'll find MLC's approach refreshingly different.

With 120 years of experience, MLC understand how important it is for people to have proper levels of insurance. And we know that group insurance is often the only form of insurance many people have.

So when you choose MLC Group Insurance, you know that we will always be there. We've never left the market so our commitment to providing as many Australians as possible with the benefits of insurance, means we have constantly supported the group insurance market.
