2. Nomination of beneficiary – must be nominated by the Member

Non-binding death benefit nomination

Complete this section if you wish to indicate to the Trustee your preferred beneficiary/beneficiaries of your death benefit. It is the Trustee's ultimate decision to whom the benefits will be paid and in what portions. Your nomination will be taken into account by the Trustee. The Trustee will ultimately be restricted to paying the death benefits to your dependants and/or your legal personal representative (estate). It is important that you read the information on nominating a beneficiary on page 2 before completing this section. If this application relates to an existing policy, then the nomination provided in this form overrides the existing nomination on file. Total must equal 100% or all nominations will be invalid. You can nominate a percentage up to two decimal places.

Information on nominating a beneficiary

Nomination options

A non-binding nomination subject to Trustee discretion.

The Trustee will decide who receives your death benefit, taking into consideration your preferred beneficiaries and your current circumstances at the date of your death.

No nomination.

The Trustee will decide who receives your death benefit.

Who can you nominate?

Under superannuation law, you can nominate:

Individuals

- your spouse or de-facto spouse, including same sex partners
- children including step and adopted children, children of your spouse and other children within the meaning of the Family Law Act 1975
- individuals who are financially dependent on you at the time of your death
- someone in an interdependency relationship with you at the time of your death.

Legal representative (your estate)

Your legal representative either the executor under your will or a person granted letters of administration for your estate if you die without having left a valid will.

Why can't you nominate other family members or friends?

The law only allows you to nominate individuals who are financially dependent on you or have an interdependency relationship with you at the time of your death. However, you can choose to have your benefit paid to your estate where you can nominate your friends and/or other family members in your will to receive these funds.

What is a financial dependant?

Someone who is financially dependent upon you at the time of your death.

The definition of a dependant under superannuation legislation may be different to the definition which is used for Tax purposes. For more information on estate planning we recommend you speak with your financial or legal adviser.

What is an interdependent relationship?

This is a close personal relationship between two people who live together, where one or both of them provide for the financial and domestic support and personal care of the other. This type of relationship may still exist if there is a close personal relationship but the other requirements aren't satisfied because of some physical, intellectual or psychiatric disability.

Taxation

The taxation rules relating to death benefits are complex and different taxation treatments may apply depending on the beneficiary nomination in place. Please seek advice from your tax adviser.
