Planning for the unexpected

While you don't like to think that something might happen to you, or your family, it is always better to be prepared for the unexpected.

Why prepare for the unexpected?

Think about the risks that you face in everyday life. There are risks that we can't remove entirely. However, for a lot of risks that we can't eliminate, we can mitigate their impact by taking out suitable personal insurances.

An umbrella can't prevent the risk of rain, but it can minimize its impact.

What are the risks?

If you don't have adequate insurance, an unforeseen death or illness could have severe consequences for you or your family.

What would be the impact on your family if:

- your income was to stop, or
- you were unable to work for an extended period of time?

How would you pay your mortgage and meet your other living expenses, if your income was to cease?

You could struggle to make ends meet and run down your savings very quickly.

Seek advice

A financial adviser can help ensure you have the right insurances in place to help protect your family's lifestyle. The first step is having the conversation.

Other key considerations

- You may already have insurance through your employer or your super fund. Even if you have existing insurance, it's always good to review what you currently have, to ensure that it's adequate to meet your needs.
- Everyone's needs are different and the types and amounts of insurance that are appropriate for you may not be appropriate for someone else. It's important that what you have in place is tailored to your needs, and that you review what you have on a regular basis, as your circumstances may change.
- How much will it cost? There are a range of factors that influence the cost of insurance, including your age, gender, occupation, and your medical or family history. It may be cheaper than you think.
